

DELAYED EFFECTIVE DATES & REPEALS

Prepared by the Legislative Service Office

May 3, 2021

The following is a list of laws that will become effective or be repealed on a future date, or that terminates a program's legal authority on a specified future date unless the Legislature acts to amend the law. For reference, "repealing" a provision automatically removes text from the Wyoming Statutes by operation of law, but "terminating" the authority of a program or function merely discontinues the program or function and leaves the statutory text intact.

Many of the provisions listed below are intended to simply sunset or become effective as provided by law. However, some provisions contain delayed dates because, as evidenced by session debate, the Legislature intends to review the status of the law in the future.

This list is provided so members and committees of the Legislature may request legislation they deem appropriate to amend program authorization and delayed effective and repeal dates. This listing includes reversion dates for appropriations that are not standard "end of the next biennium" reversions but does not include standard reversions or termination dates for task forces that are not codified in the Wyoming Statutes.
